POTATO CONTEST

Big, bigger, biggest. Who has the biggest potato in the ADVERTISER-SENTINEL territory, anyway. Last week this paper told of one brought into the office which weighed two pounds. But since then Stanley Ackerson has appeared with a pair of tubers which made Earl Beatty's spuds look like small potatoes. One weighed two pounds three and one-half ounces, and the other two pounds four and one-half ounces.

Tales are being told of the whopper spuds grown this year—some said to be as big as pumpkins. We'd like to know if the stories are true. To the adult bringing the biggest potato into this office before election evening the publishers will give a year's subscription to either the Advertiser or Sentinel. The boy or girl bringing the biggest 'tater, will be presented a year's subscription to a good boys' or girls' magazine, as they chose.

Bring on the spuds, who has the biggest?

THE JOBMASTER STICKS

The present period is unique in one respect at least, the way the boss politician of the time has been able to keep up for almost two years a multiplication of roles.

It has been political custom for a great many years, that the politician who was able to get his candidate elected to high office would get a reward in the form of some job which held coveted honor or money. Finally satisfied with such a reward from the spoils system, the boss has ordinarily made a pretense of giving some return for the government's investment for his time.

Not so with the boss politician of this period, Mr. James Eloysius Farley. When President Roosevelt rewarded the shaper of his own political fortunes, with the Postmaster Generalship, it was expected Farley would soon resign from jobs as chairman of the Democratic National Committee and chairman of the Democratic New York State Committee. It simply did not happen. Some months ago newspaper men diplomatically twitted the President of the fact his official family was pulling too many wires of advantage to themselves, and soon afterwards Mr. Farley made an announcement he would relinquish his state chairmanship this fall. Did this happen? Certainly not, the boss Democrat easily trumpted up an excuse to keep his oily hand on the throttle of New York politics, on plea that Governor Lehman wished him to continue.

Jobmaster Farley is not averse to drawing a salary as Postmaster General of the United States, for which he certainly can find time to do practically nothing. At the same time he is dispenser of patronage on a scale that makes the role of any preceding politician look in comparison, like a bootblack's job. Where is the political boss who would not smack his lips at the prospect of distributing the 100,000 new government jobs, that the bureaucratic Roosevelt administration has created? Is it any wonder that Farley keeps hold of the reins when he can exert pressure in so many different directions?

When one considers the huge funds the federal government has been free to dump here and there during the past eighteen months, it will be surprising to see any Republican gains in Congress at the coming election. For a poker player with five aces would be easy to beat, compared with Boss Farley showering from both hands the rich plums that are paid for by the long suffering taxpayers of the country.

UNIVERSAL FINGER PRINTING

The brutal kidnapping of Mrs. Stoll, wife of a wealthy southern oil man, sends another shudder up the backs of all people who might be harassed by these most pernicious enemies of society. To the victims themselves, and families of those "snatched", the terror and mental agony is so great money holds little significance compared with the desire to have a dear one returned.

In spite of the passage of a federal law inflicting severe penalties, the epidemic of kidnapping has not abated, and if anything, has increased over the past two years. It is so easy for an abductor to put pursuit far behind by means of a high-powered car, the law is placed at a disadvantage when the snatchers have a few minutes start. Something must be done to curb crime in general and kidnapping in particular, or life will become more dangerous in the United States than it is in bandit infested western China.

One of the most promising weapons for combating crime lays in the positive identification of criminals. This is best accomplished by finger printing. Of course it would be impossible to expect everyone of criminal character to admit the fact and come into designated places for registration, so the only alternative is to take a finger print record of all citizens. This might be done in conjunction with the census.

A further benefit of finger printing everyone, would be the fact many aliens who have entered the country illegally, could thus be spotted and sent back where they belong. If such a system had been in vogue, Hauptman, accused of kidnapping the Lindbergh baby, would have been identified in 1930 and returned to his native land, saving all the mental torture and expense this case has cost. Allowing, of course, he is guilty of the crime he is to be tried for.

WHERE DOES IT START?

Although there have been many fears which have gripped the American people during the course of this depression, doubtless the one, biggest terror has been the fear of wild inflation. Especially has this been true during the past two years, since the impending and actual change of administration with the accompanying uncertainty regarding our monetary policy, people of any property have been living in the perpetual dread of this spectre.

Just what is inflation anyway, that the soundest people, persons with property of one kind or another, should fear it as an impending evil? Is it a state of mind, magnified for political purposes, or is it an actuality, more grim and dread than anything the mind could conjure? Many people are asking this, or similar questions today. We quote below the words of Dr. Robert Riegal, Director of the Bureau of Business and Social Research at Buffalo University, who concludes some observations of current conditions, with another question along this line.

Dr. Riegel writes:

"The decline since April in business activity continued during August and September. We are now back to the lowest point of the preceding dip (November, 1933) and fast approaching the abysmally low figures of 1932.

"Employment and payrolls were slightly higher in August than in July and the September figures have not yet been issued but it is not likely that they will be encouraging when they do appear. If production volume continues to decline it is only a question of time until the reflection appears in employment and retail sales.

"Meanwhile wholesale prices, retail food prices and the cost of living index continues to rise. The Department of Labor Statistics index of wholesale prices has risen almost continuously since March, 1933. The index of the cost of living in August was higher than it has been at any time since March, 1932.

"A pertinent question to ask at this time is, why is it that prices continue to rise when unemployment shows little increase during the past year and demand for goods is so low that production falls off? Is this not "inflation", as the term is generally used?"

Here then, is a university economist, apparently not absolutely sure where lies the line that marks the beginning of a period of inflation. He knows this country has been drifting for many months towards a threatened period of inflation, but evidently is unable to place his finger upon a date in the calendar and say, "this is where it started."

Probably that is one of the greatest dangers a nation slides into when flirting with the waters of an inflationary period. No one can lay down a line and say, "It is dangerous to go beyond this!" Historians and eye-witnesses tell us exactly the same thing about Germany's disastrous inflation. For months the price of the mark had gone down, in value of American dollars. Time dragged along without anything surprising happening. No gold was in circulation and prices was steadily rising as the value of the paper mark went down. Everyone at first was confident the mark would eventually come back to its old value, and people began speculation in German paper money on both sides of the Atlantic. The government attempted to stabilize the price at a certain point but soon the dyke was crushed and the purchasing power of the currency dropped to new low levels, from which it took plunge after plunge, until finally marks were worth no more than the paper they were printed on.

That is the ultimate end of printing press inflation. The big buying wave does not roll up until people get so thoroughly frightened, they are in a frenzy to exchange their sinking currency for something of tangible value.

A SOUND EXAMPLE

Practically all people will commend Dr. Barron of Addison, for his unequivocal refusal to run as a candidate for Congressman-at-Large on the Law Preservation ticket. His statement that it is no time for voters to cast "protest" votes, is an admirable way of summarizing the present situation in this country.

Dr. Barron made a militant campaign for the Republican nomination for Congressman in the 37th District. He lost, but in losing the election he did not lose his head. In losing he proved he was of Congressional calibre by putting thought of the welfare of the country far above personal ambition or notoriety. Dr. Barron feels the Republican candidate, Sterling Cole, is a sound man whom the District can trust to stand four-square in support of our Constitutional rights.

Constitutional rights of all Americans are being threatened by the innovations of the present Administration. In urging support of the voters for Sterling Cole, Dr. Barron's stand is sincere. His example should be followed by all thinking citizens of the district, who value American traditions and Liberty.

HERE'S HOW—This youngster doesn't know about New York State's milk crusade but he knows a good thing when he tastes it. And he knows milk is good for him.

Robert Moses Produces a Red Hot Issue That Will Not Down

Albany, Oct. 16—In the foot steps of Charles Evans Hughes and Theodore Roosevelt, is the way New Yorkers characterize the rise to leadership of Robert Moses, Republican candidate for givernor, whose comment on the so-called Alger report of the New York State Insurance Department has set political tongues a wagging. Thousands of persons over the state lost heaviiy in so-called guaranteed mortgages. The Alger report made to Governor Lehman is characterized as a whitewash by Mr. Moses who terms it a campaign document, aimed to cover up the responsibility of the Lehman administration for the mortgage scandal. Mr. Moses says: "The object of Governor Lehman was to sprinkle cologne on a manure heap".

Hundreds Lost Their Money

Hundreds of persons in many of the counties lost their savings in mortgages issued by companies supposedly under rigid state supervision. The point Mr. Moses makes is that the Insurance Department did not supervise sufficiently to make the mortgages sound and the investigation just concluded leaves the inference the Insurance Department did the best it could and that perhaps the people ought overlook their losses and give the Department another chance.

"Weakness and Cowradice"

"The Alger report is a palpable whitewash", says Mr. Moses. "It is an elaborate and bewilderingly scientific study with purely political conclusions. It shows appalling inefficiency, weakness and cowardice in the Insurance Department. It proves grotesque incompetence on the part of the Superintendent and feebleness on the part of the Governor who appointed him and who has kept him in office. Nevertheless, the Commissioner's conclusion is that the Superintendent, having made a complete mess of his job to date, and having entirely lost public confidence, should be left in charge because he is not a bad fellow personally."

Who Drafted the Platform?

Mr. Moses points out "The responsibility of the Lehman administration for the mortgage situation is referred to in the Republican State Platform. There is no secret about the fact that I drafted that part of the platform which deals with state issues, and insisted on its adoption in substautially the form sumbitted. I called attention in the platform draft on the mortgage situation to the contrast between the handling of this situation by Governor Lehman and the handling of the Armstrong Investigation by Governor Hughes. I said that the object of Governor Lehman was to sprinkle cologne on a manure heap. The report of Commissioner Alger fully justifies this statement."

Frightened and Confused

"Not long ago" says Mr. Moses, "Superintendent Van Schaick asked me to serve as one of the public directors of the New York Title Insurance Company. As a result of a great deal of pressure on his part and on his absolute assurance that there was an opportunity to render a public service, I became a member of the board. What I found out in the next few weeks was almost incredible. I immediately retired from the board and gave the Superintendent a memorandum on the subject. Everything about my contact with this company and with the Department indicated to me that superintendent Van Schaick was well intentioned, ultra conservative, frightened, confused and weak, that the Governor who kept him in office was exactly the same kind of man, and that a situation which called for bold, straightforward, fearless and incisive action on behalf of hundreds of thousands of small investors was handled with kid gloves on the basis of the principle that nothing should be done to rock the boat. The low down on the present situation is that neither the present Governor of this state nor the Superintendent of Insurance nor Commissioner Alger has any guts, and that is precisely what the people of this state most need in times like these."

Women Are Organized

Up-state party workers are rejoicing in the fact that from Buffalo to New York Republicans are united as they have not been in years and this includes the women who are carrying on an active campaign under the leadership of Mrs. Virginia M. Bacon, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee. Not in years have the Republican women been organized as they are today.

Committee of 400

F. Trubee Davison, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee, who has established offices at headquarters in New York says: "In knocking down and sweeping out, the phoney issues of this campaign, Bob Moses has set the stage for a real campaign issue". Mr. Davison's state-wide committee, active on the firing line, is working in close harmony with the State Committee.

Improvements At Redeemer Church

a kitchen with a series of serving tables leading into the main hall. Dining tables are to be altered and rebuilt into uniform size.

It is estimated that when alterations are finally completed, the basement of the church will seat 175 people.

The work in the church proper consists of necessary alterations to the pews, allowing adequate kneeling facilities for every communicant. The project also increases the seating capacity to 40 more pews.

The Addison Fish and Game Club has announced that the annual dinner of the organization will be held in the newly constructed guild hall on November 15. It is anticipated that between 150 and 175 people will be served.

These improvements are the beginning of a series of projects to be undertaken this winter by the Men's Club of the church. Final arrangements of the improvements are now complete and it was announced yesterday by Dr. Amos G. Stiker, president of the club, that construction would start immediately.

Apart from the fact that these improvements were necessary to the church property, the Church of the Redeemer will now be equipped with one of the largest guild halls in this section.

The county seat, Bath, will again entertain the annual meeting of the Steuben Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, on Wednesday, October 24. According to announcements released today throughout the district, this fourteenth annual meeting will be held in the Masonic Temple at Bath during the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, next, October 24. It is expected that more than one hundred Steuben Scouters will attend the meetings. Reservations are to be made on a troop basis according to the announcement. A great majority of the forty-seven troops will be represented. This is the twelfth time the annual meeting has been held in Bath. The Masonic Temple is entirely adequate for both meetings.

The program calls for two sessions—a business meeting for all committees and the council from four o'clock until six o'clock, to be followed by a general dinner for all scout men from 6:30 until 9 o'clock. A guest speaker will address the dinner gathering. The ladies of the Eastern Star in Bath are to serve the dinner at 6:30 o'clock. Tickets should be reserved in advance if possible through scout headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce, Corning, or the Court House, Hornell.

The council business meeting will hear reports on finance, camping, training, sea scouts, and activities. The officers to be elected are president, district vice presidents, commissioner, comptroller, treasurer and executives. A special committee on nominations, of which Fred C. Cameron of Corning is chairman, will report prior to the election. Book More Than 100 Years Old Found By Lewis Greengrass

A book published in 1827 was found several days ago by Lewis Greengrass among a group of family heirlooms. The book is entitled, "A View of the Expected Christian Millenium." The author was Joseph Priest.

In introducing his readers to the subject, the author said, "A knowledge of the opinions of the ancient fathers entertained upon the subject of a Millinnium, is highly interesting and are presented here as proof that the subject is by no means the growth of the present times. It is pleasing to find our own deductions from the Sacred Volume agree, in any sense, with the writing of the primitive fathers and of those who have been distinguished in this subject in modern times. As the ancients of the Christian church believed in the final arrival of a thousand years Millennium, when the religion of the Messiah shall wholly triumph in all the earth, so shall the humble author of this book most cordially and devoutly espouse this doctrine, because supported by the Scriptures. There has been no age of the Christian church. in which the expectation of the Millennium was not admitted by many divines of the first eminence, though never embraced in any creed as an article of faith essential to salvation. But the captivating hope has ever possessed the bosom of the militant church, before and since the advent of Christ, that his sceptre shall, in the seventh Millennary of time, be swayed in it's gentle influences over all the earth."

Mr. Greengrass also discovered in the group of articles a hymn book of the Methodist Episcopal church, published in 1849.

"Milk Not Fattening" Says Comm. Baldwin

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 8—Charles H. Baldwin, Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, opened Milk Month today by urging women to reduce with milk to safeguard their health as well as to aid the state's greatest industry.

New York State's great social and economic movement to increase consumption of milk has at times struck the stonewall of women's resistance to milk as a "fattening food"—a fallacy fatal to the dairy industry.

Commissioner Baldwin said that the consumption of milk by women would assure the success of the state's "drink more milk" movement and enable women to preserve or gain slender figures. Slim or stout, women will discover that milk itself does not add an ounce, he said.

Competent medical authorities have asserted time and again that milk is the essential food with which to eliminate embonpoint. Mr. Baldwin added. He pointed out that the State Department of Agriculture and Markets took the trouble of preparing a small pamphlet — entitled "Slimming Safely" — to reassure women that milk, consumed in the proper quantity and in combination with the proper foods, would take off weight.

Slimming diets have been prepared with the practical guarantee of a sylph-like figure without endangering health, he said. Reducing diets too frequently imperil the dieters' resistance to disease because milk — foremost protective food—is eliminated in the prejudiced belief that milk alone adds weight.

"One of the most serious problems of the milk industry", Commissioner Baldwin said, "will be solved if the women of the state accept the medical prescription of reducing with milk—a pint a day."

Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Hanson with Dr. and Mrs. Cooper of Battle Creek, Michigan, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Clark on Park Place Monday enroute to the sessions of the National Medical Association in Boston. Mrs. Hanson was a college classmate of the former Miss Constance Clark and both Dr. Hanson and Dr. Cooper are noted surgeons.

Mountain Children Need Clothes to Attend School

Dear Editor:

Thousands of American children have no chance at even an elementary education.

In hundreds of isolated communities in the southern mountains children of America's frontiersmen are living in privation and want. Undernourishment and sickness are rife. Very many are even denied their one opportunity, attendance at the one-room mountain school, because they have not clothes to wear. I do not mean such clothes as you are used to seeing on school children; I mean overalls and two shirts for a boy and two simple dresses for a girl. Of thirty-five children in one mountain school only two had shoes.

The Save the Children Fund of America is doing a thorough-going work of child welfare in a number of mountain areas. Just now the workers are almost heart-broken because they do not have clothes with which to keep children in school. Three dollars will furnish a complete kit of clothes for a boy or girl — underclothes; simple dresses and sweater, or overalls, shirts, and jumper; coat and shoes. Or used clothing will be gladly received. Almost anything sturdy can be used. It will be remodeled if necessary by sewing groups directed by the workers.

Surely every family that reads this has two or three used garments or some outgrown shoes that could be spared. A club, class, or other group can easily get together a shipment that may mean keeping a whole school going. Even one garment will be welcome. Please send direct to Save the Children Distributing Center, LaFollette, Tennessee.

School books are almost as badly needed. So are hot school lunches. cod liver oil, child health clinics, recreation material, toys and games, traveling libraries. Supplying any of these things for one little mountan community would make a fine project for a group. If you are interested write for definite information to Save the Children Fund, 156 Fifth Ave., New York City, New York .

SPEAKER TELLS OF THE CONQUISTADORES

Miss Susan Schock of the Allison James School in New Mexico, spoke to the congregation of the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. Miss Schock gave an interesting account of the work among the people of old Spanish descent, the oldest civilization in America; the Conquistadores, whose ancestors crossed the Rio Grande long before the Pilgrims landed in Massachusetts. These proud people are now so impoverished most families have to live with a cash income of only twenty-five dollars a year.

Mothers and Friends Invited to Scout Meeting

A meeing of Girl Scout leaders was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Guy Dann. Plans were made for the month of October, which included work on badges, handicraft and a Hallowe'en party. The next meeting, it was decided, will be devoted to painting, the making of first aid kits, weaving of hot pads and clay bowls.

Present were: Mrs. Ethel Smith, Miss Dorothy Sareen and Mrs. Guy Dann. An invitation is extended to all interested mothers and friends to attend any meeting of the leaders. In this way they will be able to gain a more intensive knowledge of Girl Scout activities and to better appreciate the good which results.

Mrs. George M. Smith of South Street was at Corning Hospital Wednesday for the removal of a piece of bone from her right thumb which was fractured in a fall at her home one day last week.

ADDISON WOMAN ON COUNTY COMMITTEE

Mrs. Grace S. Crane was appointed on a committee with former county judge, Almon Burrell, and District Attorney Pratt, to investigate and report on the advisability of dividing representation of the county commttee equally between men and women. The appointment was made by J. C. Latham, chairman of the Republican County Committee.

Some lawyers have given offhand opinions that it would be unconstitutional to require the committee members from each district to be made up of one woman and one man.

Select Exhibit For Winter Potato Show Now

Potato exhibits can be selected most effectively at harvest time and the farm bureau suggests that potato growers gather specimens now for the winter show which is a feature of the annual Potato Growers Convention.

The points to consider in making the selections are trueness to type, freedom from defects and uniformity of size and shape. Good market size is preferred and preference is also given to bright skinned tubers.

Thirty-two potatoes are required for an exhibit, and to get this number about half a bushel should be selected and stored away for the winter show. The show is an important feature of the annual potato growers' convention staged each year by the county farm bureau.

The exhibit for which substantial premiums are offered, is open to all potato growers of the county. It is the purpose of the show to encourage the production of potatoes of high quality and to advertise the potato industry of the county. The local show is considered to be the largest and best of any held in the state.

Mrs. Mary Gardner was a week-end guest of Mrs. Jennie Cleveland in E. Aurora.

MILLIONS are spent to bring you FRESH FOOD

Fast Freights with refrigerated cars . . . thousands of miles of tracks . . . all a part of our modern transportation system to bring you food that is fresh and wholesome.

KEEP it FRESH with Electric Refrigeration

● Millions of dollars have been spent also to develop facilities for protecting food when it reaches the home.

Today thousands of families enjoy automatic, dependable food protection that heretofore they have never known. They are also learning that electric refrigeration actually pays for itself through the savings it makes possible.

Why not have an electric refrigerator in your home? Prices are still low and terms can be arranged.

Why don't you PRACTICE what you preach?

● If milk is good for others, it's good for you and your family. Why don't you TRY it?

THIS is a dairying community. We ought to know more about milk (and probably do!) than people in the big cities. Yet, those city-folks run rings around us when it comes to drinking milk. Something wrong somewhere. We ought to set an example by being, ourselves, the greatest consumers of milk in the State.

It's never too late to mend. Let's resolve right now, during Milk Month, to get in there and drink. A quart a day for every child—a pint a day for every adult. That's the prescription of men and women wise in the way of diet and health. It isn't such a large order, is it?

For grown-ups, it means a glass of milk at the noon-meal and another at the evening-meal. For children, it means four glasses, with or between meals. But it means more than a schedule. It means new health, new vigor, new interest in life and people and work. And what a pleasant prescription it is!

A glass of milk, ivory and cool, fragrant with the breath of our own farm-lands. Lift it to your lips and drain every drop. Sip by sip, it will refuel your body for the day's tasks; it will brighten your mind with its nourishing nectar; and it will help to restore prosperity to this community in which we live and love and hope.

Drink more Milk: IT'S GOOD FOR YOU

IT'S GOOD FOR BUSINESS

THE STATE OF NEW YORK

FOUR FULL QUARTS A DAY—Alyn Drake, beautiful screen star, eats four meals a day and drinks a quart of milk with each. Alyn finds that milk doesn't add unwanted weight and hails New York State's "drink more milk" campaign as a boon to beauty.

The entertainment consisted of singing of rounds and the showing of mirroscopic views of the trip to Washington made by the Addison group last summer.

F. Arden Burt Hooked a Big 'un

Just to prove to Addison folks, that he can charm fish as readily with a rod and line as he can hold an audience with his baton, F. Arden Burt brought in one of the biggest catches of the season Tuesday evening. In the little recess after school he caught a pickerel 25 inches long, which tipped the scales at four and one-half pounds.

Mr. Burt gave due credit to his wife's quick action in helping with the catch. After a hard fight the big pickerel was finally brought near to hand; a last big flop and out slipped the hook, but Mrs. Burt had the landing net beneath the prize. So the music director had something to show besides a fish story.

Improvement in Late Crops In New York State Noted

The rains during September have very materially improved the condition of the late crops in New York according to a state-federal report released from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Except on Long Island, where the potato crop had made a good growth before the weather had become too dry, many of the fields upstate had made a poor growth. Many of the tops were spindling and while the plants did not appear to be diseased, they did not have the most thrifty appearance. As soon, however, as adequate moisture became available the plants began to improve and with favorable growing weather through September had the promise of much better production on October 1 than a month earlier.

In a few fields in the more exposed locations frost had stopped the growth of the plants but the majority of the late plants were still alive on October 1.

Abundant moisture coupled with above normal temperatures and cloudy weather has caused blight in some of the lower elevations, and in some instances has caused rot to develop. In others it has merely killed the vines.

The quality of the tubers is generally reported to be good with many of the tubers running to large sizes.

From the present indications the total state crop is forecast at about 28,840,000 bushels compared with about 24,600,000 bushels in 1933.

Improvement has also taken place in the prospects through the north-central late potato states so that the present outlook for the 18 surplus late potato states is for about 255,966,000 bushels compared with about 232,421,000 bushels produced last year.

The bean crop has improved slightly during the month. Many of the vines have made considerable growth but in some instances this has been detrimental to the beans since it has made a secondary growth, delaying the maturity of the plants and causing the beans to be in several stages of maturity. The rains have also stained some of the beans which were already pulled, but still in the field. Present indications point to a state production of about 1,469,000 bushels compared with 1,403,000 bushels last year.

On September 1st, much of the buckwheat crop of the state was too short to harvest and several fields were thought to be worthless. The rains during September, however, so revived many of the plants that the prospects for the crop have improved considerably. The weather during September also was nearly ideal for the filling of the crop so that good yields are in prospect. The present outlook is for about 2,448,000 bushels compared with about 2,641,000 bushels last year.

Ever since early summer some dairymen have been compelled to feed supplementary feeds to their dairy cattle since the pastures had so little feed for their stock. Many were resigned to feeding their stock the remainder of the season. During September the rains have so improved the pastures and meadows that the cattle are in many instances able to get along without supplementary feeds. Pasture conditions have gone forward from 49 per cent of normal on September 1 to 72 percent on October 1. While few of the meadows have yielded any second cutting they have greened up wonderfully and are now saving hay and other forage for next winter by furnishing considerable pasture to the livestock.

For the state as a whole, the production of apples is estimated at only about 10,800,000 bushels compared with 16,060,000 bushels last season. There was a good production of early apples this season and many of these have already been disposed of. Pennsylvania has nearly an average crop of about 8,000,000 bushels but Virginia with about 3,000,000 bushels is only about two-thirds of an average crop. In general the eastern apple growing states have light production with nearly average production through the Pacific Coast States so that the entire crop for the United States is estimated at about 115,262,000 bushels compared with 142,981,000 bushels last year and the 5-year average of about 156,303,000 bushels.

The severe weather last winter killed many of the more tender grape vines and injured many others. This reduced this season's prospects so that the state crop is forecast at only about 47,250 tons this year compared with about 64,800 tons last year and the 5-year average of 76,540 tons. The other three important grape growing states of the east, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan expect about average production amounting to slightly better than 100,000 tons.

New York State dairymen depend to a considerable extent upon obtaining their feed grains from outside the state. This season practically all of the feed grains of the country are in light production. The total corn crop amounts to only about 1,416,772,000 bushels compared with 2,343,883,000 bushels last year and 2,516,307,000 the 5-year average. The entire oat crop of the country is estimated at only about 545,938,000 bushels compared with an average production of about 1,186,956,000 bushels. The early season was also very unfavorable so that the total production for the country is estimated at only about 122,240,000 bushels compared with the 5-year production of about 270,444,000 bushels.

Gather eggs frequently, using open wire baskets, and cool the eggs at once to preserve quality. A temperature of from thirty-five to fifty degrees is desirable.

Tests indicate that the span of human life could be increased at least six years by proper nutrition, with milk as a leading part of the diet.

Bureau Leaders Organize For Fall Program

Township chairmen of the farm bureau met in Bath Monday evening to make plans for the annual membership canvass and fall organization work.

Practically every community of the county was represented in this conference, which was presided over by President Murray Barnes of Avoca. It was decided that township committees should meet during the next few weeks to plan programs of work to be carried on in their communities in 1935 and to organize the membership canvass.

The campaign to be conducted in November will be under the direction of the township chairmen who are A. B. Ackerson, Addison; Murray Barnes, Avoca; Edward Heinaman, Bath; and Ned Van Keuren of Bradford.

Other local leaders are Claud Rumsey, Cameron; W. R. Brown, Dansville; Aden Ingalls, Fremont; Francis Acker, Hartsville; Fay Bennett, Howard; W. L. Bennett, Hornby; L. C. Drake, Prattsburg and Bert Jimerson of Rathbone.

Virl Bollen of Troupsburg; George Quinn of Urbana; F. W. Mehlenbacher, Wayland; Aaron Putnam, Wheeler; Chas. Scudder, Campbell; Leon Dennis, Canisteo; Lee Edmond, Cohocton; A. E. Scudder, Erwin; and Lester York of Greenwood.

Other township chairmen present at the meeting were Elwyn Swarts, Hornell; A. J. McCaig, Jasper; Leo Gorges, Lindley; W. L. Draper, Pulteney; Irving Yost, Thurston; F. C. Young, Tuscarora; Herbert DeGraw, Wayne and George McKinley of West Union.

How What and Why?

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State colleges of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Rust on Flatiron

Ella M. Cushman of the state college of home economics replied: "If kerosene does not remove the rust from your flatiron, I suggest the use of rottenstone with linseed oil. If this is not effective, use 00 steel wool with the oil.

"The oil prevents the steel wool from scratching the surface of the iron."

Storage Cellars

C. B. M., Nassau, writes: "Please send me literature that describes a storage for root and other vegetable crops in a heated cellar."

Professor A. M. Goodman of the department of agricultural engineering answers: "Have a well insulated wall between the part of the cellar occupied by the furnace and the part you wish to use for storage. Also, have one or two windows, screened with hardware cloth, to open from the storage room to out-of-doors.

"The desired temperature for these stored crops is around thirty-four or thirty-five degrees F. For this reason a reliable thermometer within the storage room is recommended.

"A copy of Cornell bulletin E-196 has been sent to you. It tells about storing vegetables at home."

Mrs. H. W. H., askes: "How often does my hardwood floor need rewaxing?"

The answer to this query: "While much depends on the wear it gets, the floor need not be rewaxed more than two or three times a year with ordinary use.

"The appearance of waxed floors has been marred more often by too much wax than too little. Infrequent light applications of wax, and frequent polishing will give best results.

"Never use an oiled brush or mop in connection with waxed floors, for the oil softens the wax and the soft surface collects dust."

The Federal Government is mapping a plan to place thousands of men now on relief rolls to work harvesting hay in vacant fields to aid in stamping out of a shortage in livestock feed.

Farm Bureau Offers Soil Testing Service

In an effort to repair some of the damage done by the drought to Steuben County meadows and pastures the farm bureau has employed an assistant to work on this problem this fall. With this additional help the farm bureau is able to do a considerable amount of soil testing to determine the lime requirement for alfalfa and can also carry on pasture improvement work.

In offering this service attention is called to the fact that because seeding mixtures are expected to be high in price next spring, precaution should be taken to make sure that conditions are right for the successful production of these crops. Mr. Joseph Baran, the new farm bureau helper, worked in Steuben County for several years in the soil survey and is familiar with local conditions.

There is no charge to this service which is available to all farmers of the county. Requests should be made to the farm bureau office at Bath immediately.

Reduce Losses During Storage

Poor Conditions May Ruin First Class Potato Crop, Ora Smith Says

A poor storage place may completely ruin a crop of first class potatoes, but the best storage will not make unsound potatoes into marketable ones, says Professor Ora Smith of the New York state college of agriculture.

To store wet or muddy, unripe, badly-bruised, cut, skinned, diseased, frosted or otherwise unsound tubers, leads to loss and disappointment, he points out. Both moisture and temperature can be controlled by ventilation in a properly constructed storage.

In his opinion growers of potatoes in New York state suffer greater losses from high temperature than from freezing. He recommends a storage temperature between thirty-six and forty degrees F. as the best for potatoes. Below thirty-six degrees the tubers develop a sweet taste which is undesirable in market stock but does not injure the seed stock. Potatoes will not freeze at temperatures above twenty-nine degrees. They sprout at about forty degrees.

When first placed in storage potatoes should have all possible ventilation as long as there is no danger of freezing, Professor Smith says. This ventilation lowers the temperature and helps to remove the moisture brought in from the field and also that given off by the tubers in curing. If this moisture is not removed, the pile sweats, and rots often develop. Enough ventilation should be provided during the winter to keep the potatoes dry.

Vegetables Are Good For Many Milk Dishes

Both children and grown folks sometimes find it inconvenient to consume the full amount of milk that doctors and dietitians prescribe as necessary for good health.

The New York State drink-more-milk campaign has as its goal a pint daily for adults and a quart daily for children and that is the amount agreed upon by state health authorities as a minimum for safety. That means fresh milk or cream; not other dairy products such as cheese and butter.

Where difficulty is met in drinking that much as a fluid, the answer is for the housewife to prepare dishes in which large amounts of fresh milk or cream may be included. The milk is just as good and effective when cooked, and with the various food combinations, is an appetizing element.

Vegetables lend themselves especially to good milk dishes. There is vegetables a la king, for instance, that is just about a meal in itself. Here is how this is made:

4 tablespoons butter
½ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 quart milk
2 cups cooked diced carrots
2 cups cooked peas
1 cup grated cheese
1 cup cooked cut celery
10 to 12 slices bacon

Make a medium white sauce of butter, flour, salt, pepper and milk, boil one minute. Add drained vegetables and cheese, reheat and serve with crisply browned bacon or pour into a baking dish, lay bacon on top and bake in a moderate oven until bacon is crisp and golden brown:

Another excellent dinner dish is as follows:

Corn Chowder

4 tablespoons butter
2 onions (sliced)
2 cups potatoes (diced)
1 can or 2 cups crushed corn
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups boiling water
1½ quarts of milk

Melt butter in a saucepan, add onions, potatoes and corn and cook gently two or three minutes, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper and boiling water; cook slowly until vegetables are tender, adding one-half cup more water if necessary. To the cooking vegetables add the milk, bring to the boiling point and serve at once.

Young Farmers Face Challenge

Problems of Local, State and National Government Need Attention

Unless young farmers give some attention to problems of local, state and national government, they may be in an unfortunate position in a few years, says Professor Catherwood of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell.

"Questions of health, education, highways and similar matters all demand action and attention, and farmers should be among the first to understand how important these services are to the public.

"Government expenditures have more than kept pace with the increase in population and in national wealth and income", Professor Catherwood points out, "and with increased government services have come increased taxes.

"Children in cities are provided with good schools, and farm children must be well-educated to compete with them. Much advancement has taken place in rural education in the past ten years, and more attention will be given school costs.

"A large proportion of good New York farms are still on roads that are impassable a part of the year, and a farm-to-market road program is essential in sections where agriculture will continue to be an important industry.

"Many rural areas lack hospitals or doctors. A few counties have county hospitals. Health officers are more important, because they aim not only to cure but to prevent disease and sickness. Problems of water supplies and quarantine procedure have also become increasingly more important."

And for a dessert this old standby should be included in the menu quite often:

Custard Pie

2 cups milk, 3 or 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Beat the eggs only slightly. Add the sugar, salt, milk and flavoring. Pour into a floured, raw pie crust. Place in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes and then reduce the temperature quickly to a slow oven (325 degrees F.) for thirty minutes. At this time the custard should be browned and stiff enough so that a knife inserted in the center will come out clean. Remove from the oven and do not cut until cooled.

Vegetable growers in New York state are planning a motor tour of Wayne and Oswego counties on August 28.

Uncle Ab says that most envy is based on the fact that we failed to see the chance the other fellow took.

Advertising Campaign Will Not Increase The Price Of Milk

Entire Cost Of Increasing Milk Use To Be Borne By Producers And Distributors Of New York State

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

NEW YORK STATE'S $500,000 advertising campaign to increase consumption of fluid milk and cream will not cost the consuming public one cent. But it will increase returns to both producers and distributors.

This apparent paradox is explained when it is pointed out that fluid milk and cream command higher prices than other classifications of milk and the more fluid milk and cream used the higher will be the returns for dairymen and dealers.

The entire cost of this movement aimed to aid the dairy industry and increase the public health and well-being, will be borne by the producers and distributors equally.

Repaid by Milk Tax

Under the Ostertag-Byrne bill creating the Bureau of Milk Publicity a tax of one cent is levied on each one hundred pounds of milk used for fluid milk and cream; that is the milk and cream delivered on your doorstep each morning.

This tax is paid equally by the producer and distributor, one half cent by the producer and one half cent by the distributor. The tax averages one forty-seventh of a cent per quart as there are approximately 47 quarts in each one hundred pounds of milk. The New York State Department of Taxation and Finance collects the tax.

Under the law this tax cannot be passed on to the consumer. The producers and distributors provide this fund to pay for advertising to increase their business.

The reason producers and distributors are so anxious to increase the consumption of fluid milk and cream is because these classes of milk bring the highest prices and the dairy industry as a whole accounts for approximately one half of New York State's farm income.

Last year — 1933 — New York State's farmers delivered 5,178,498,000 pounds of milk at dairy plants.

This flow of white, clean, cool, health-giving fluid was broken down into various classifications and the milk used for cream, creamery butter, whey butter, American cheese from whole milk, part skimmed American cheese, Swiss type cheese, brick and Munster cheese, limburger cheese, Italian types of cheese, cream cheese, cottage cheese, pot and baker's cheese, other varieties of cheese, ice cream, condensed milk,

"Ringing the Cow Bell"—Cartoon by Jerry Costello in the Albany Evening News

evaporated milk, powdered whole milk, powdered skim milk, dried casein and miscellaneous products.

Half Is Fluid Milk

Fluid milk—that milk delivered in bottles on your doorstep — accounted for 49.6 per cent of the total amount of milk in 1933. Other classifications in 1933 were cream, 25.8 per cent; butter, 5.9 per cent; American cheese, 5.4 per cent; other cheese, 4.5 per cent; condensed and evaporated milk, 6.2 per cent, and other products, 2.6 per cent.

Farmers and distributors receive higher prices for fluid milk than for any other classification. Consequently everyone is anxious that as much milk as possible go into this class.

The percentage of 49.6 per cent for fluid milk is low and should and must be raised. That is the purpose of this great movement to increase consumption. The public is being asked to co-operate in it because as more milk is used farmers' returns will increase and the health of our citizens will be improved according to the additional milk which they consume.

Addison Captures Slugfast Honors

Lawrence Toby Takes Twirling Laurels at Lawrenceville — Both Teams Present Makeshift Battle Fronts—Addison Wins Out With Two Markers in Ninth.

In weather fine for football, but too cold for good baseball, Addison out-lasted the Lycomings of Lawrenceville on the Lawrenceville diamond Sunday afternoon by the nice big score of 15 to 13, after seven innings of all kinds of baseball. Both sides used a couple of pitchers and Lawrence Toby, pitching the last four innings for Addison, topped the list and really pitched good ball, although a combination of various things made things pretty hot for him in the sixth. John Grange started off well, but after the third preferred to play first base. The lineups of both teams were far from regular. Lindley helped Addison to get nine men on the field and Corning, Tioga and Elkland contributed to the Lycoming battle front.

In two big innings, Addison came from behind to tie the count with six and seven runs splurges, while Lawrenceville limited their efforts in any one inning to four. The home team led at bat, but Addison took advantage of five walks and three hit batsmen to reach first and with fourteen stolen bases was able to top their Pennsy rivals by a narrow margin.

The score follows:

New Zane Grey Film Portrays Historic Feud

Abounding in historic feuds between cattlemen, the rugged West furnished Zane Grey with one of its most spectacular struggles for "To the Last Man", which Paramount has just filmed. The picture is coming on Saturday to the Avon Theatre, for one day only, matinee and night.

The imposing all-star cast features Randolph Scott, Esther Ralston, Buster Crabbe, Jack LaRue, and Noah Beery. The company of more than 150 players was sent to the actual location of Zane Grey's story, where it remained for several weeks in order to provide the picture with the necessary tone of realism.

The story has its inception in post-Civil War days. One of two feuding families of Kentucky decides to call quits to the bloodshed. The head of the other family, sent to jail for his last killing, follows his old rival to Arizona. There the relentless feud is revived.

Unforeseen complications, however, enter the struggle at this juncture, when the son of one family and the daughter of the other fall in love without knowing each other's identity. Randolph Scott and Miss Ralston appear in these romantic roles. How the hard and long conflict comes to a thrilling and happy conclusion is said to place "To the Last Man" on a par with the best outdoor romances of the screen.

It was directed by Henry Hathaway.

Robbie's All-Stars Open Grid Season

Aggregation of High School Lads, Lacking Both Training and Experience, Make Creditable Showing Against Painted Post Eleven.

The Addison All-Stars, a hastily recruited gridiron aggregation, jaunted down to Painted Post last Thursday night and graciously took it on the chin to the extent of 18 to 0. The Painted Post High School eleven furnished the opposition.

Hand it to the All-Stars just the same for the good old fashioned quality of courage, and particularly to Maurice Robbins, manager, captain and coach of the team. The Posters have been playing a full schedule and have had the benefit of professional training and considerable experience at the game. But this was nothing for Robbie and his undaunted crew to worry about. They were ready for battle just the same. A couple of twilight practice sessions and the All-Stars had achieved a thoroughly devised system of attack, embodying elements of both the Notre Dame balanced line and the Warner wing back. Blocking was perfected and a defense against aerials worked out.

The All-Stars lined up as follows: Robbins, q; Smith and Heidrick, halves; Russ Wade, full; Peck, c; Hargrave and Beers, guards; Gib Brown and Maynard Allen, tackles; Gardner, Phillips and Matthews, ends.

Ray Hargrave equipped with hunting boots, took the costume prize. Otherwise honors were evenly distributed.

Barricaded in a mine 1,000 feet underneath the surface of the ground, the men have menaced with raised picks, anyone trying to approach near enough to reason. As only 16 solders could descend to the mine in the elevator at one time it was impossible to use force to bring the strikers to the surface. After the stubborn miners had telephoned an order for 345 coffins, mine operators finally met their demands for weekly wages of $3.50. Many of the men were almost stark mad from hunger and thirst.

Will Rogers Uproarious in "Handy Andy"

His Wife Wants Him To Quit Work and Play—He Does!

Will Rogers is uproarious in "Handy Andy", which opens at the Avon Theatre at the midnight show Saturday evening, also Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, according to reports from the Coast previews. In the picture his wife, Peggy Wood, wants him to play—and he does! And thereby hang most of the hilarious situations that go to make this his funniest picture.

Things run smoothly as long as Rogers is in his drug store. But when he sells out and starts to play, he finds life complicated. First he raises pigeons, until they escape into the house. Then he tries golf, with screamingly funny results.

But the climax comes when he goes with his wife to New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras. He refuses to attend the ball with her. Later, however, wandering around alone, he encounters a fellow druggist and his lovely girl friend, Conchita Montenegro.

Mellowed by a few cocktails, Will decides to attend the ball after all, and he chooses a leopard skin as his costume. A few more cocktails lend him the courage to try an adagio dance with the lithe Conchita. Then the fun begins. His rough and tumble dance starts a fight that ends in a riot. And there's a surprise ending that hasn't been divulged in advance of the showing.

David Butler directed the picture under the supervision of Sol M. Wurtzel. The screen play was written by William Conselman and Henry Johnson from the play "Merry Andrew" by Lewis Beach.

Mrs. Bessie Slocum returned Sunday from Lyons where she spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Slocum.

Rev. Ralph Webb Honored Upon Return As Pastor of M. E. Church

Dinner and Entertainment in Church Parlors Last Evening Expresses Pleasure of Congregation at Minister's Return to Local Field—Roy L. Omelion Presides—Welcoming Message by Frank H. Smith.

Approximately one hundred members of the First Methodist Church of Addison gathered in the church parlors last (Wednesday) evening to welcome their pastor, the Rev. Ralph Webb and Mrs. Webb back to the church for another year. A dinner was served at 6:30, followed by an interesting program which included the official welcome, delivered by Frank H. Smith, and excellent musical numbers by members of the congregation.

The meeting was opened by Roy Omelion, president of the Men's Club of the church, who called upon the Rev. D. L. Pitts to offer prayer. Mr. Smith, who followed, in welcoming the Rev. and Mrs. Webb said in part: "We are welcoming our returning pastor and his wife back to a field of labor that is very different from what it was a few years back. There was a time when a minister could meet his congregation in the church for the singing of some hymns and nothing more would be expected of him.

But the life of a minister is vastly different today. Now his is character builder. His task is not merely that of taking part in services. The life of a minister today is one of service, in all that the word implies, which means that he is engaged as a promoter of character building.

We of this church are beginning a new year. We have made gains this year. It is well to take reckoning now of the new standards by which our success is judged. We are beginning now to measure the success of a church by the output rather than by the intake. It is a task of producing output in terms of character that we as a church are now engaged. It is by no means an easy task but it is one which can be made a very happy task. We welcome our pastor and Mrs. Webb back to help us with the work and in behalf of the congregation, I assure them of the cooperation and assistance of us all as they come back to their endeavors in this field."

The Rev. Webb, in responding, thanked the people heartily for the welcome which was being extended to Mrs. Webb and himself. Continuing he added that the tasks and the problems of today are tearing the spirit of the people. He outlined three rules to follow in facing the problems of the day. In conclusion, he thanked the people for their cooperation in the past and their pledge to work with a united front in facing the problems of the future.

Following the Rev. Webb's talk, a musical program was rendered as follows: violin solo by Hubert Dininny, accompanied by Mrs. Harold Wilson; "God is Our Refuge and Our Strength" by ladies trio consisting of Mrs. Edgar Dann, Mrs. Rolland Dininny and Mrs. Mildred Spencer; song, "Would You Walk Home, Sweet Home" by Forrest Rouse, with guitar; violin solo, "Souvenir" by Junior Perkins, accompanied by Kenneth McCaig; song, "When It's Lamp Lighting Time in the Valley" by Bert Rouse and Forrest Rouse, with violin by Forrest Rouse. After the singing of "God Be With You" by the assemblage, the program was brought to a close by the offering of prayer by the pastor, the Rev. Ralph Webb.

Those present were: Mrs. Susan Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Omelion, Arlene Omelion, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Apgar, Madeline Apgar, Mrs. Ed. Watkins.
